Education, history and democracy

Date: 6th July 2016, 2.00pm-6.00pm

Venue: UCL Institute of Education, 20 Bedford Way, London WC1H 0AL

This is the launch event for the newly established BERA History special interest group. Please do join us to celebrate this launch and to help us plan for the future. We welcome all who are interested in history and educational research, for example the history of education, biography, life history, the history curriculum and representations of history in schools and informal educational settings.

The seminar for this event is on the theme of Education, history and democracy. This is an opportunity to discuss the powerful theme of democracy in relation to education and history with our keynote speakers, marking also the centenary of John Dewey’s Democracy and Education (1916).

You are warmly invited to join us for tea and coffee to introduce the SIG, informal talks and discussion, and a reception.

2.00pm - Registration, tea and coffee
2.30pm - Gary McCulloch – Introduction and opening discussion
3.00pm - Lori Beckett – keynote and discussion
3.30pm - Hsiao-Yuh Ku – keynote and discussion
4.00pm - Steven Cowan – keynote and discussion
4.30pm - BERA conference and future plans
5.00pm - Reception and departures

Price: BERA members and History of Education Society Members £Free; Students £5; Non Members £10

Book your place at the event online below:
www.bera.ac.uk/events

British Educational Research Association, 9-11 Endsleigh Gardens, London, WC1H OEH; Charity No. 1150237; Phone: 020 7331 5217; Email: events@bera.ac.uk